

A modern getaway in a 4-bedroom condo

The modern resort theme is a fitting style for this family of five and their resale condominium. Seeing how their unit on the ground level is privy to a lush garden view, the Project Creative designers capitalised on the vista with gorgeous wood textures that draw out a holiday resort feel. This also fulfilled the homeowners' request for more storage with the woodgrain accents applied as laminate finishes for the custom-built cabinetry.

ABUNDANT STORAGE

With three kids growing up in this living space, clutter is inevitable. To maintain a clean and neat visage, the designers mounted a uniformed flow of closed storage cabinets for the TV entertainment unit. A functional divider separates the living area from the dining area, and doubles up as additional worktop and storage space.

FRESH RENEWAL

From the flooring to the walls, the living and dining areas have been completely gutted to make way for a refreshed look. The design team then proposed whitewashed walls and glossy homogeneous floor tiles to provide a clean and modern backdrop for the lavish application of custom-designed joinery in dark woodgrain textures.

WORK WITH THE VIEW

An invigorating garden view in the balcony became the inspiration for designing a modern resort theme in this apartment. "We saw the view and used it as a starting point to guide the rest of the design along," says the Project Creative designers. A streamlined array of custom-designed fixtures in a dark woodgrain finish help to round off the modern resort setting, while also offering a generous capacity for storage.

"The view of the lush greenery outside the home helped to dictate the direction of the interior design in this home."

SLEEK SHOWCASE

The entrance to the kitchen is flanked by a full-height storage and display fixture. For a family of five, this is a handy way to conceal clutter and keep the mess to a minimum. A showcase niche in the centre of the structure features a dark glass backing, and helps to amplify the volume of space in this tight corridor. The designers also downscaled the kitchen since the owners don't require such a big space.

EFFICIENT KITCHEN

In the wet kitchen, the designer wanted the space to remain functional and efficient. All-white cabinetry and a black countertop pair well in this quaint, streamlined space. Since the family doesn't often cook at home, all they required is a space-efficient area to easily whip up quick meals.

“The homeowners were very specific about one thing: they wanted lots of storage. That’s why we installed mostly closed storage compartments to keep the overall look clean-lined and uncluttered.”

GARDEN SUITE

The master bedroom enjoys a tranquil garden view and once again, the designers wanted to highlight the scenery. A cosy palette of woody tones fills the space in a bid to recreate a restful hotel-style boudoir. A walk-in wardrobe and glass-enclosed bathroom complete the look of indulgence in this luxury suite.
